

I drive truck for a living and listening to the radio is part of my everyday life. I depend on the radio for up to date weather and traffic reports , current news and , of course, entertainment . Before the availability of satellite radio the only thing available was some weak , fade in, fade out AM station or some distant FM station , both playing the same repetitive selections over and over again , and rarely giving me any needed reports when and where I needed them. Satellite radio is a service that I'm more than happy to pay for because it makes my life on the road easier. If the NAB stations cannot compete then maybe they should look at themselves and apply changes there rather than running to the government to have their noses wiped and their tears dried by mama FCC . I support satellite radio and I am against government bailout that NAB is asking for. Thank You.
